

Dec 6-8, 2024
Hong Kong Convention and Exhibition Center

THE 36TH ANNUAL SCIENTIFIC MEETING HONG KONG OPHTHALMOLOGICAL SYMPOSIUM
HELD IN CONJUNCTION WITH THE 12TH ASIAN NEURO-OPHTHALMOLOGY SOCIETY MEETING AND
THE ANNUAL SCIENTIFIC MEETING OF ASIA-PACIFIC SOCIETY OF OCULAR ONCOLOGY AND PATHOLOGY

Guidelines for Walsh-in-Asia Session Speakers

- All presenters must attend the meeting physically on 6th Dec 2024 in Hong Kong.
- Each presentation is scheduled for 20 minutes:
 - 8 minutes for the case presentation
 - 5 minutes for discussion
 - 2.5 minutes for radiology, and
 - 2.5 minutes for pathology.
- The number of slides should not exceed 10-15, depending on your speaking style.
- Limit your presentation to the case description and 1-2 summary slides at the end.
- Include all authors and their affiliations on the first/title slide.
- The first slide after title slide should be your disclosure slide, even if you have no disclosures (“I have nothing to disclose”).
- Do NOT have slides with references at the end.
- Do NOT use fonts smaller than 22pt in the body of your slide.
- Try to limit each slide to no more than 5 bullet points.
- Relevant radiology and pathology images should be selected by you and included in the final set of slides; the radiologist and pathologist will likely modify the radiology and pathology slides for the final presentation, but having the presenter include the most relevant images is very helpful to know what they are trying to show.
- All radiology is presented by the radiologist, and all pathology is presented by the pathologist.
- When you arrive at a radiology or pathology slide, you should defer to the expert for description/discussion.
- You may include 1-2 audience response questions in your presentation, subject to review by the Walsh-in-Asia hosts. Please keep in mind that if you include polling questions, you must allow extra time in your presentation to give the audience time to vote.
- Be prepared to answer questions from the experts, moderators, and audience. You may call on your supervisor/ co-authors for comment.